“Baby Incubator” Lie Reflects US History of Fanning Hatred, Triggering War

Nayirah Testimony

The Nayirah testimony was false testimony given before the United States Congressional Human Rights Caucus on October 10, 1990, by a 15-year-old girl who was publicly identified at the time by her first name, Nayirah. The testimony was widely publicized, and was cited numerous times by United States senators and President George H. W. Bush in their rationale to support Kuwait in the Gulf War.

In 1992, it was revealed that Nayirah's last name was Al-Sabah and that she was the daughter of Saud Al-Sabah, the Kuwaiti ambassador to the United States. Furthermore, it was revealed that her testimony was organized as part of the Citizens for a Free Kuwait public relations campaign, which was run by the American public relations firm Hill & Knowlton for the Kuwaiti government. Following this, al-Sabah's testimony has come to be regarded as a classic example of modern atrocity propaganda.[1][2]

In her testimony, Nayirah claimed that after the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait she had witnessed Iraqi soldiers take babies out of incubators in a Kuwaiti hospital, take the incubators, and leave the babies to die.

Her story was initially corroborated by Amnesty International, a British NGO, which published several independent reports about the killings[3] and testimony from evacuees. Following the liberation of Kuwait, reporters were given access to the country. An ABC report found that “patients, including premature babies, did die, when many of Kuwait's nurses and doctors ... fled” but Iraqi troops “almost certainly had not stolen hospital incubators and left hundreds of Kuwaiti babies to die.”[4] Amnesty International reacted by issuing a correction, with executive director John Healey subsequently accusing the Bush administration of “opportunistic manipulation of the international human rights movement”.[5]

RUSSIA BOMBS A MATERNITY CLINIC?

MARIANNA AND THE NEW "INCUBATOR LIE"

Outraged, Western media report on an alleged Russian airstrike on a maternity clinic in Mariupol. The "victims" are actors, however, which anyone can easily verify.

Photos spreading through media show a pregnant woman who is being evacuated from a maternity clinic. In addition, photos are shown where a pregnant woman is being carried away on a stretcher. When you look closely, you see that it is the same young woman. She changed clothes, but underneath the new outfit you can still see the pyjamas, in which she came down the stairs. Was a pregnant woman leaving the bombed hospital asked to change clothes, before putting her on a stretcher and bringing her to the ambulance?

Is this realistic, considering the shock and injuries, which would be expected in such a situation? Let's see what really happened here, and we will get to meet this young woman again a little later in this analysis.

First of all, the question arises: Who is this woman? Her name is Marianna. She is a beauty blogger from Mariupol, a photo model. Everyone can see her Instagram account, under "gixie_beauty," (image at right).

The Empty Clinic

Ukrainian president Zelensky posted a video on Telegram showing the maternity clinic, which was filmed immediately after the explosion (see the still burning fires and the posted time of the video). The video is shocking, but is has a "minor blemish:" You can see the destroyed interior of the hospital, but nowhere can you see blood, or victims who have died or are injured.

The Russian speaking person filming reports that Russian airforces just bombed a maternity clinic. To make it even more dramatic, he shouts into the obviously empty building "Is anyone here?"

When you look at the damage done in this video or a clinic in operation, all patients, employees who were on the side of the destroyed windows (those were the rooms with hospital patient beds), would have had to be severely injured or killed by the impact of the glass panes and broken glass. But there were neither victims or blood to be seen.

The Propaganda Video

A video was published on YouTube showing the explosion and what happened immediately after. Every professional can see that the video was filmed using a professional camera and stabilizer. A video taken from a cell phone would be blurred, especially the scenes when the person filming is running.

By the way, Marianna is once again featured in the title picture. Which we will return to shortly.

First, let's look at the other details of this very interesting video. Minute 0.45 shows how Marianna is being carried down the stairs on a stretcher, the same stairs that she walked down herself in her pyjamas. Here you can see Marianna again in her pyjamas walking down the stairs (image next page).

You can see on the video clip that it is Marianna lying on the stretcher. The camera follows Marianna all the way to the ambulance.

Stage Directions

There are more scenes in this 3.5min video that show that this is a staged video. For example, in min 1.31 a woman appears with a child in her arm (the child is calm and doesn't cry). The woman calmly exits the maternity clinic and is not panicked, as you might expect from such an occasion. Instead, she calmly askes in Russian: "Where should I go now?"

There are more such strange scenes. For example, in min 1.42 you can see a young boy calmly exiting the clinic, but in min 1.50 he suddenly weeps hysterically and is being calmed down by the soldiers, before he goes back into the clinic. Why do he and the others go back into the clinic from which he "escaped"? In order to film the scene of exiting the clinic again?

The soldier, by the way, is also interesting. During minute 0.40 he completely unprofessionally bandages the head of a woman, looking hectically toward the camera, as if to make sure he is doing it correctly. But why is a soldier bandaging the head of a woman, given that this is a hospital in which plenty of physicians and nurses work who could do a much better job than him?

Marianna Is Everywhere

In Min 2.09 we can see Marianna again, by the way. As you can see from the title image of the video, she is standing in front of the clinic, wrapped in a blanket (image next page).

Although the same Marianna has already been brought to an ambulance on a stretcher, filming the entire way of the stretcher being carried: down the stairs (which she earlier walked down herself in her pyjamas), across the destroyed entryway/patio all the way to the ambulance. And all the sudden she is standing in front of the clinic, wrapped in a blanket this time around.

Starting min 2.13, the same soldier is back on the scene. This time he tells the cameraman what happened and how they are evacuating the injured.

Always Just At The "Right" Moment

Everyone can notice without too much effort that the footage from the alleged Russian attack is staged. And the footage came at a fitting moment, because that very day Zelensky was pleading for a no-fly zone from NATO. Just at the right moment, to "fortify the argument," there was a Russian airstrike on a maternity clinic.

There is a system/strategy in place here. We can all recall the big explosion in Charkiw, which permeated the media for days. This explosion happened immediately before Zelensky addressed the EU parliament in his strong appeal (image at right)..

This story of the maternity clinic also reminds me of the "incubator" lie to go to war against Sadam Husseib.

Проезидент Украины Владимир Зеленский по видеосвязи выступил на заседании Европарламента 1 марта, на шестой день войны России с Украиной. Сегодня рассматривают заявку Украины на членство в Евросоюзе.

Владимир Зеленский в своей речи поблагодарил страны Евросоюза за то, что собрались рассмотреть заявку на членство Украины в ЕС, однако ему жаль, что все произошло при таких обстоятельствах. Также глава государства вспомнил об ужасных обстрелах гражданских в Харькове за последние сутки, детях, погибших во время обстрелов, и украинцах, отдающих свою жизнь за страну.

Incidents in maternity clinics, attacks on defenseless newborns – these images shock anyone and intercept logical thinking. And this exactly is the purpose of propaganda: The purpose is to unleash emotional responses and to evoke a desired atmosphere including an enemy image.

War Propaganda
Instead Of Critical Journalism

When you can show so easily that the alleged airstrike of the maternity clinic was a staged plot of the Ukrainian government, why can the "journalists" of the western "quality media" not see this? Or to ask this question differently: Why does no "quality journalist" explain to me why this was not a fake, and how Marianna, as "poor pitiable victim" of a Russian airstrike, appears three times, in various different roles, in the same video, which are allegedly proving the Russian attack?

This is war propaganda in its purest form following the guidelines of war propaganda (image at right, link below.

Ein kleiner Leitfaden

Woran man Kriegspropaganda in den westlichen Medien erkennt

Wer die Medienberichte im Westen verfolgt, der muss feststellen, dass unsere deutschen, freien, objektiven und kritischen Medien Kriegspropaganda betreiben. Es gibt die berühmten 10 Regeln der Kriegspropaganda, an denen man es leicht überprüfen kann.

Die 10 Regeln der Kriegspropaganda wurden von der Historikerin Anne Morelli in ihrem Buch „Die Prinzipien der Kriegspropaganda" aufgelistet. Wir sehen uns diese Regeln nun einmal an. Dabei werden wir sehen, dass unsere Mainstream-Medien sie exakt befolgen. Dazu zeige ich zuerst ein Beispiel für Kriegspropaganda im Spiegel, danach kommen wir zu den 10 Regeln der Kriegspropaganda.
